Year's Report Of Highway Work In Co.

Resident Engineer C. A. Palmer of Appomattox reported today that during 1957 approximately 28 miles of secondary roads in Appomattox and Campbell Counties were hard-surfaced.

In a summary of accomplishments on farm-to-market roads in the residency during the year, the engineer said the major project in Campbell County was construction of an access road (Route 726) to the Babcock and Wilson nuclear facilities plant near Mt. Athos. This job involved construction of a bridge over Beaver Creek, widening an -overpass of the Norfolk and Western railroad, and excavating about 60,000 yards of rock. Construction was financed with secondary federal aid and industrial access road funds.

Palmer said other secondary road improvements included new hard surfacing on sections of the following routes: 766 from Brookville School to US 29 (2.3 miles); 618 from 690 toward the Charlotte County line (1.1 mile); 622, Waterlick Road, two sections totaling about 0.5 mile; 631 and 632 near the Bedford County line (1.3 mile); 650 from 501 between Gladys and Naruna and construction of a new connection to 501; extension of hard surfacing on 633 east of Rustburg for about 0.5 mile; 685 from old 29 to Route 24 (1.8 mile); 689 from 24 to 690 near Yellow Branch; 704 from the intersection at 705 to Seneca post office; 705 west of Lynchburg; 853, Brooklawn Drive, and 854 near Lynchburg.

Other improvements on secondary roads in the county included almost 47 miles of resurfacing; 4.3 miles of grading and stabilizing; consruction of new bridges on Routes 677, 687 and 726; installation of culverts to replace four inadequate structures; elimination of one ford and strengthening a bridge on Route 663 near Rustburg, to raise its load capacity to 10 tons.

Campbell County has 552 miles of secondary roads, of which 366 miles are hard surfaced.

In Appomattox County, the engineer reported, almost 14 miles of secondary roards were hard surfaced. Included was work on the following routes: 611, 661, and 460, to complete a loop from 668 at Stonewall to Route 26; 625 from the Prince Edward County line north (1.4 miles); 628 from the end of the hard surface, south, (0.6 mile; 653 from US 460 toward Hixburg (1.9 miles); 634 from US 460 east (0.5 mile); 647 (one mile) and 648 (0.4 mile) south from the Spout Spring area; 654 at Tower Hill south of US 60 (0.2 mile); and 654 miles on streets in the Town of Appomattox.

Secondary improvements in Appomattox County during the year also included approximately 10 miles of resurfacing. Slightly more than six miles were graded and stabilized; a bridge was constructed on Route 638; three weak bridges were replaced with culverts; one ford was eliminated on Route 636; and a bridge on Route 641 was strengthened and widened.

At the end of the year Appomattox had 408 miles of secondary highways, of which 124 miles were hard surfaced.

During 1958, Palmer said, emphasis will be placed on hard surfacing and replacement of weak bridges in both counties. He also said continued efforts will be made to eliminate fords at streams in Appomattox County.

Raifall Up 9 In. In 1957

Appomattox had "above normal" rainfall for the year 1957, it was revealed in a month-by-month rainfall report by W. S. Taylor, local Weather Bureau reporter.

"Normal rainfall here is listed as 39.35 inches. The year 1957 came through with a total of 48.36 inches. This above normal precipitation is sure to have built up the underground water table, which had been lowered by several "dry years" in a row.

The month-by-month tally for 1957 follows:

January	2.88
February	4.10
March	2.23
April	5.17
May	2.27
June	5.77
July	3.60
August	3.55
September	8.52
October	1.32
November	6.11
December	2.84

Mr. Taylor measures precipitation at his home just outside the town of Appomattox. Local showers in other parts of the county might vary the rainfall total for that area from the above figures, but the year was marked by excellent "general" rains that aided crops, pastures and wells throughout the area.

The Town of Appomattox:

I want to again thank all of you good people for the wonderful spirit and assistance that you have given your Mayor and Town officials during the past year.
